

UEFA FOOTBALL & SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY REPORT 2018/19

The latest FSR report showcases crucial commitments to using football's power for sustainable development.

"Purpose over profit" was one of the key messages delivered by UEFA President Aleksander Čeferin at the latest UEFA Congress in Amsterdam.

At the core of this message is the organisation's commitment to harnessing the power of football to help a wide array of ethical initiatives, which is highlighted in our latest Football and Social Responsibility (FSR) Report.

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT AND STRONG PARTNERSHIPS

UEFA's work focuses on a variety of issues, including:

- Diversity and inclusion
- The environment
- Health and well-being
- Child safeguarding
- Human rights
- Supporter relations

This reflects UEFA's desire to enhance the value of its core business while contributing to sustainable development in society.

UEFA's FSR unit addresses key issues through football in close partnership with member associations and expert organisations, the achievements of which are detailed throughout the 2018/19 Football and Social Responsibility Report.
